Rental Criteria

RESIDENT SELECTION POLICY

Irvine Management Company is an equal opportunity housing provider which manages its properties in accordance with the spirit and intent of all local, state and federal fair housing laws, including the Fair Housing Act as amended, which prohibits discrimination in housing based on race, religion, sex, national origin, handicap or familial status.

Many landlords rely upon “Rental Scores” to estimate the relative financial risk of leasing an apartment to a prospective resident. In addition to estimating risk, rental scores are an objective and consistent way of reviewing relevant applicant information, and help speed the application approval process.

Section 8 Participants

If you participate in the voucher-based Section 8 program, please do not complete this online application, but instead contact 949-430-4035 for next steps.

How is my rental score determined?

Rental scoring systems assign points to certain factors identified as having a statistical correlation to future financial lease performance. Your rental score results from a mathematical analysis of information found in your credit report, application, and previous rental history. Such information may include your bill-paying history, the number and type of accounts you have, collection actions, outstanding debt, income, and the number of inquiries in your consumer report. The final number, or rental score, represents an estimated level of risk as compared to the performance of other consumers in a range of scores.

Because your rental score is based upon real data and statistics, it is more reliable than subjective methods of evaluating your information. Rental scoring treats all applicants consistently and impartially. Additionally, your rental score never uses certain characteristics like race, color, sex, familial status, handicap, national origin, or religion as factors.

How is my rental score used?

Rental decisions are based upon how much risk a landlord is prepared to accept. Each landlord, therefore, sets the minimum score required for approval of an application. It is possible for your rental score to yield different results depending upon where you apply. Your rental score might mean a denial at one property, while the same score might be approved at another. It all depends upon the risk a landlord is prepared to accept.

What can I do to improve my rental score?

Your rental score may change if the underlying information it is based upon changes. The total improvement, however, generally depends on how that factor relates to other factors considered by the scoring system. Nevertheless, to improve your rental score, concentrate on paying your bills on time, paying down outstanding balances, and not taking on new debt. Your chances of approval should also improve if you apply for an apartment with lower monthly rent.

Where can I have my score explained?

Should your application be denied based upon your rental score, you can learn which factors most negatively influenced your score by contacting the consumer reporting agency listed above. Additionally, you can obtain a free copy of your consumer report, if you make the request to the consumer reporting agency within 60 days of the denial.

First Qualified, First Approved

We will not charge an application screening fee when no rental unit is available at that time or will be available within a reasonable period of time. Completed applications are considered in the order received.

The first applicant who meets our established screening criteria is approved for tenancy. Applicants are not charged an application screening fee unless or until their application is actually considered. We do not refund an application screening fee to an applicant whose application is denied, after consideration, because the applicant does not meet the landlord's established screening criteria.

Income, Credit and Rental History Requirements

Applications are approved based on a cumulative review of credit reports, investigative consumer reports, criminal record information, unlawful detainer (eviction) reports, employment history, bad check searches, social security number verification, and previous tenant and employment history as outlined above. Factors that will result in denial of the application include but are not limited to, household income less than 2.75 times the monthly rental rate (exceptions may apply if an affordable component or program is applicable), an active bankruptcy (open or filed), rental collections greater than $0, outstanding rental balance (not limited to Irvine Management Company) of $100 or more, or an eviction judgment within the last 7 years.

Consent Form

CONSENT TO VERIFICATION OF CREDIT AND OTHER INFORMATION

I am making this Application voluntarily for the purpose of obtaining Landlord's approval to rent an apartment. I explicitly authorize Landlord, the property owner, and their respective employees, agents, successors and assigns (collectively, the "Landlord Parties"), to verify the credit and other information provided by me in this Application, to screen my information against the OFAC SDN list on an ongoing basis, and to obtain credit reports, investigative consumer reports (regarding my character, general reputation, personal characteristics, and mode of living), and other reports from credit reporting agencies, tenant screening service companies, banks (including electronic funds verification), employers and other persons or entities with information relating to this Application. I further authorize and instruct any and all credit reporting agencies, consumer reporting agencies and consumer information sources to provide such reports to Landlord Parties. I understand that if I lease an apartment, the Landlord Parties shall have a continuing right to review my credit information, payment history, occupancy history and other information in this Application for purposes related to my Lease and/or for account review or for debt collection purposes both during and after the term of my Lease. I understand that in instances in which there is a government rent subsidy, I have the option, at my discretion, of providing lawful, verifiable alternative evidence of my reasonable ability to pay the portion of the rent to be paid by the tenant, including, but not limited to, government benefit payments, pay records, and bank statements, Landlord will provide me with a reasonable time to respond with that alternative evidence, and Landlord will reasonably consider that alternative evidence in lieu of my credit history in determining whether to offer the rental accommodation to me.

Summary of Rights Under the California Investigative Consumer Reporting Agencies Act (CC§ 1786.22): You have a right under California law to inspect files maintained on you by an investigative consumer reporting agency pursuant to any of the following procedures, on reasonable notice during normal business hours, and upon your furnishing proper identification: (1) You may inspect the files in person and may receive a copy of the file for the actual cost of duplication services. (2) You may make a written request via certified mail for copies to be sent to a specified addressee. (3) You may make a written request for a summary of your file by telephone, if any toll charge is prepaid by or charged directly to you. The agency must provide trained personnel to explain your file to you and must explain to you any coded information in your files at the time it is provided to you for inspection. You may be accompanied by one other person of your choosing when inspecting your files. That person must furnish reasonable identification. The agency may require you to provide a written statement granting permission to the agency to discuss your file in that person's presence. The agency is not required by law to make available to you the sources of information in your files, although such information would be obtainable through discovery procedures in any court action brought under the Investigative Consumer Reporting Agencies Act.

Additionally, under California Civil Code §1786.22, if you wish to dispute the accuracy or completeness of any item in the consumer report, you may contact the consumer reporting agency above and request an investigation. You may also view the file maintained on you by the above credit reporting agency during normal business hours. You can receive a copy of your file by providing proper identification and paying related copy costs. You may also receive a summary of the file by telephone. The agency is required to have employees available to explain your file to you and they must explain any coded information in your file. You can bring someone with you to view the file, so long as they have identification.

Additionally, you have certain rights under federal, state, and local laws with respect to your consumer report. In evaluating your application, a consumer reporting agency listed below may provide us with information.

A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore or write to: Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 1700 G Street NW, Washington, DC 20552.

You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.

You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your “file disclosure”). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:

- o a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
- o you are the victim of identity theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
- o your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
- o you are on public assistance;
- o you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

In addition, all consumers are entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for additional information.

You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.

You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous.

See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for an explanation of dispute procedures.

Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.

Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.

Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need – usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.

You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.

You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited “prescreened” offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-567-8688.

The following FCRA right applies with respect to nationwide consumer reporting agencies:

Consumers Have the Right To Obtain a Security Freeze

You have a right to place a “security freeze” on your credit report, which will prohibit a consumer reporting agency from releasing information in your credit report without your express authorization. The security freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in your name without your consent. However, you should be aware that using a security freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in your credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application you make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit.

As an alternative to a security freeze, you have the right to place an initial or extended fraud alert on your credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If you are a victim of identity theft, you are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting 7 years. A security freeze does not apply to a person or entity, or its affiliates, or collection agencies acting on behalf of the person or entity, with which you have an existing account that requests information in your credit report for the purposes of reviewing or collecting the account. Reviewing the account includes activities related to account maintenance, monitoring, credit line increases, and account upgrades and enhancements.

You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.

Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. For information about your federal rights, contact: Federal Trade Commission, Consumer Response Center, 600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, DC 20580, (877) 382-4357

I hereby acknowledge that I have received a Summary of Rights in compliance with the Fair Credit Reporting Act as well as a Summary of Rights in compliance with California Civil Code §1786.22.

I authorize Landlord Parties to obtain reports that may include credit reports, investigative consumer reports, unlawful detainer (eviction) reports, bad check searches, social security number verification, and previous tenant and employment history.

I hereby authorize Landlord Parties (either directly or through its designated agents and its employees) to investigate Applicant's employment, financial, credit, criminal, litigation and rental history and to obtain reports that may include credit reports, investigative consumer reports, criminal record information, unlawful detainer (eviction) reports, employment history, bad check searches, social security number verification, and previous tenant and employment history.
